WASHINGTON'S POLICY DENIED

Bryan in Peace Speech Refutes "Prepare for War."

New York, October 4.—Hope that the European war would be the last object lesson of the horrors of strife and that after it all the efforts of man will be devoted to production, rather than destruction, was expressed today by Secretary of State Bryan and Oscar S. Straus, former Secretary of commerce and labor at the special peace day service held at Carnegie Hall. The service was one of many held in this city in accordance with President Wilson's recent proclamation designating today as a day of prayer for peace. The large hall was filled and hundreds of people had to be turned away.

"Today when a number of nations, all our friends have been drawn into the vortex of war," said Secretary Bryan "our first duty is to use such influence as we may have, to hasten the return of peace. There will be ample time afterward to discuss ways and means for prevention future appeals to arms."

"In this age our interests are so entwined with the interests of those who reside in other lands that no nation can live or die unto itself alone. We had no higher reason for encouraging conditions conducive to peace, we should find ample justification in the fact that the burdens of war are no longer borne entirely by those who are direct participants in it. Today every neutral nation finds itself greatly embarrassed by the great disturbance which the European war has wrought in every department of human activity."

Refutes Washington Doctrine
"We must not be discouraged if this, the greatest of all wars, broke out just when we were most hopeful of the substitution of reason for force in the settlement of international disputes. It may be that the world needed one more awful object lesson to prove conclusively the fallacy of the doctrine that preparedness for war can give assurance of peace.

"This assumption is built up on the theory that peace rests upon fear, whereas all history proves the contrary. Continuous preparation for war presupposes the existence of an enemy, who must be hated until he can be overcome; but hatred begets hatred and revenge, is the heaviest load that man or nation can carry."

"Most of the errors that man commits in international affairs arise from the failure to understand the fundamental truths that moral principles are as binding upon nations as upon individuals. A nation is but a group of individuals and no group, however numerous can expunge one syllable of the moral law."

SAVE WOMEN AS MAN SINKS

Gardiner, Me., High School Principal Drowns as Canoe Upsets.

Gardiner, Me., October 4.—Charles Hudson, principal of the high school here, was drowned in Pleasant Pond today by the overturning of a canoe. His wife and baby, and a friend, Miss Brooks of Randolph, who were also in the canoe were saved.

Mrs. Hudson clung to the bottom of the capsized craft and she was rescued, and the baby was found floating, buoyed up by its clothing. Miss Brooks became entangled under the canoe. She was unconscious when taken from the water and rescued with difficulty.

Mr. Hudson was a native of New York state, and had just been appointed to the school principalship. He studied recently at a summer school in Cambridge, Mass.

Germans are Crumpling Belgian Defenses

No Change in Maur Battles

KOUMANIAN CABINET TO AWAIT RESULT OF BATTLE (Special to The Herald)

Bucharest, Roumania, Oct. 5.—The Roumanian cabinet has decided to await the outcome of the battle between the Russian and the Austro-German armies, before taking any new final step on the question of altering its position of neutrality.

HIGH GERMAN OFFICIALS HAVE BEEN DISGRACED (Special to The Herald)

The Hague, Oct. 5.—According to reports received here today, a number of German generals have fallen into disgrace as a result of their failure to crush the allies in France. They even declare that General Moltke, head of the general staff, has been replaced by Major General Voigts-Rhetz, commanding the first division of the Guards.

PRISONERS OF WAR CONFIRM STATEMENT THAT GERMANS TREAT ALL PRISONERS WELL. (Special to The Herald)

Berlin, via Amsterdam, Oct. 5.—British, French, Russian and Belgian prisoners of war here unanimously declare that they have received good treatment at the hands of the Germans, while none of the prisoners would confirm the report of the alleged atrocities which have been described in such harrowing details by English, French and Belgian correspondents.

DUCHESS RENOUNCES GERMAN NATIONALITY (Special to The Herald)

Paris, Oct. 5.—A Paris newspaper states that the Dowager Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, mother-in-law of Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany, has renounced her German nationality, and has taken the name of Grand Duchess Mikhalovitch. She is a sister of the Czar, and has numerous friends in the American colony in Paris and the Riviera.

HAS TAKEN COMMAND OF GERMAN ARMY (Special to The Herald)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The Prince Royal of Bavaria has taken command of the German army of the north, according to dispatches received here today at the French embassy from the war office at Bordeaux.

ANOTHER TOWN REPORTED FALLEN (Special to The Herald)

Petrograd, Oct. 5.—An unofficial report from the front states that Turnow has been captured from its Austrian defenders, and that the Russian Cossacks have reached a point 10 miles from Gracow.

BELGIANS FLEEING TO HOLLAND (Special to The Herald)

Amsterdam, Oct. 5.—Refugees from Belgium are pouring into Holland by the hundreds. They declare that Antwerp is about to fall. Ten steamers which arrived at Flushing Sunday, were jammed with fleeing residents of Antwerp. The villages around Urrecht are filled with panic-stricken refugees, and more continue to come.

GERMAN LOSS AT ANTWERP HEAVY (Special to The Herald)

Paris, Oct. 5.—An official statement issued here this afternoon admits that the French have been obliged to give up ground at certain points, but the result of the battle has not yet been decided. The Germans are losing heavily at Antwerp and intend to cross the river Scheldt, says a Central News dispatch from Antwerp. Fierce cannon and rifle fire, together with electrified wire entanglements, have absolutely shattered the Germans. The whole section of their line presents a terrible scene.

ELLIOT

The ladies of the First M. E. church, East Elliot, served a delicious harvest supper on Friday evening. It was well attended. This is the third supper of its kind served by Elliot this past week, surely the harvest moon is claiming its own.

Take Game From Biddeford High By a Good Margin--Team Coming Along Fast.

The high school foot ball team continued their winning by defeating the Biddeford high at the play ground on Saturday afternoon. The locals made rather easy work of it, running up a score of twenty-seven and shutting out the visitors.

The locals played a good game and showed a big improvement over their first game. They followed and handled the ball better and while there is of course, great room for improvement, they are coming along fast and should produce a winning team for about their schedule games.

They worked the forward pass to a good advantage on Saturday, getting away with some very good passes for good distance. Butler who is playing quarterback, is working well in that position and his passing is very accurate, and he places his forward passes just about right.

Dunn at left guard played a good game and Richardson was a feature at half back. Both Sweetser and Conover were tried out at full back in the absence of Jordan who, with Captain Graham, were out of the game. The line up: Portsmouth Biddeford

1. BARRY 2. EVERS 3. COLLINS
4. MARANVILLE

Baseball fans who are considering the chances of the Boston Braves in the coming clashes with the Philadelphia Athletics are devoting much time to comparisons of the men on duty around second base. Will Collins and Barry outshine Evers and Maranville? On paper the Athletics have the advantage. Eddie Collins is regarded as the second baseman in history, and he is certainly a speedy and brainy player. Johnny Evers, who holds the same position as second baseman and field captain with the averages may do all the hitting, the Braves feel Collins does with the bat. Therefore I say that in the coming Athletics, connected that Collins is his games with the Athletics, it is foolish superior. "The critics should not for to depend too much on the dope," I get that I am seven or eight years comparing the shortstops many older than Collins," says Evers. "Collins is a better hitter and a faster man covers a world of territory, is a dandy but there are others on the Boston roster batter and a speedy man on team who will affect my slowness. In the bases, Barry has proved his a series of seven games there may be worth and his coolness in world's serious surprise. Players who have less games before, but the admirers of batted heavily all season may feel Maranville declare the Bostonian will down hard. Others who are low in outshine him.

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, Oct. 3.—The impression that exists that the Athletics for over-shadow the Braves in base-running is erroneous. The Athletics have the edge—but the edge is small.

Pardon me a squint at the number of stolen bases credited to Eddie Collins of the Athletics, and at once concluded that all the other Athletics were likewise. They aren't—nowhere near it. Collins, as a base runner, is a marvel, but none of his teammates are anywhere near his class. The other Athletics are just ordinary base-runners.

Collins, with a record of 60 stolen bases up to Monday, has a lead of 16 over Johnny Evers, the best base-stealer of the Braves. And it is that edge of 16 bases that gives the Athletics their main base-running advantage.

The Athletics, up to Monday, have averaged 2.77 stolen bases per game. The Braves' average is 1.5. Should the World Series run six games and both teams keep up their base-stealing averages during that series, the result would be that the Athletics will steal approximately 13 bases and the Braves 11. Is there such a wonderful edge in that?

Braves average 1.8 stolen bases a game.

There is more than an even chance that the two teams will not maintain their base-stealing averages during the world series—not with Gowdy and Schang in perfect form. Both rank as the best young catchers in their respective leagues. Of the two Schang is a better all-around catcher, but he hasn't any real advantage over Gowdy in throwing.

The Boston youngster, regarded as a mere novice at the beginning of the season, has come to the front with a great rush. His catching has been one of the great factors in the spirit of the Braves that gave Boston the pennant.

Gowdy is a fine general. He is handy and cool and has uncanny judgment as to what balls to signal for. Time and again during a dash of the Braves, when the opposition had the Braves pitchers in a bad hole, Gowdy would signal for a certain ball and the pitcher would shake his head. Again Gowdy signalled, and finally and with reluctance, the pitcher delivered the ball that Gowdy called for. Invariably the ball was a foul. The great trial of Boston pitchers has come to a point now where it relies implicitly in Gowdy's judgment and the success of the team speaks volumes for Gowdy.

Schang in addition to being a great backstop is dangerous at the bat. His drives, invariably are long ones, and when he connects with a ball it usually goes to the extreme edge of the field. Like Gowdy, he is a fine general, and has been a great help to Connie Mack's young pitchers. In this battle to come, the Athletics have the edge in the catching department, but it is slight, and mainly through Schang's superiority as a hitter.

CARRANZA OFFERS HIS FIRST CHIEF RESIGNATION AS

Mexico City, Oct. 4.—General Venustiano Carranza placed his resignation as first chief of the constitutionalists before the delegates to the general conference of southern chiefs shortly before 8 o'clock last night. From that time until a late hour today the question of whether the resignation should be accepted was fiercely debated, with no immediate prospects of a vote.

Orators opposed to the acceptance of General Carranza's withdrawal were repeatedly cheered by delegates and spectators. A motion was made that the first chief be informed that it would be impossible to accept his patriotic act of abnegation, but the hours passed without a vote being taken on the motion, owing to the turmoil in the Chamber.

CAR COLLIDED WITH POLE—DRIVER INJURED

Elber C. Wilson of Belmont, Mass., was injured Sunday afternoon when an automobile which he was driving collided with a telephone pole on the Lafayette road.

Mr. Wilson was on his way to Boston, going out over the Lafayette road and when near Ward's corner he turned in his seat to reach for something in the back of the car. When he did his machine took a sudden turn and collided with a pole and he was thrown out. He was badly injured and taken to the Portsmouth Hospital where he was attended by Dr. A. C. Jeffreys. He was bruised about the chest where he came up against the steering wheel and he was cut about the face and head by the glass from the wind shield and his right hand was badly bruised.

His machine was wrecked and it was later hauled to the repair shop of the Portsmouth Motor Mart.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE NOTES

Virginia has just voted for prohibition by a majority of more than 32,000. This is the tenth man suffrage state to vote itself dry—an example which no woman suffrage state has copied. Kansas, the only state which has both prohibition and suffrage went dry before women got the vote.

Remember that woman suffrage has produced no reform in social conditions; no laws to regulate woman or child labor; no improved corporation legislation; no prison reforms; no health reforms; no purification in politics; no increase in wages in any of the states that have granted it that has not been equalled or surpassed in man suffrage states.

Remember that woman suffrage is only an experiment and we cannot afford to undertake such an experiment under present conditions.

Remember that woman suffrage means suffrage for every woman and not only for your own female relatives, friends and acquaintances.

Remember that every Socialist and every Feminist is a woman suffragist, and

Remember that woman suffrage of women do not want the ballot thrust upon them by the fanatical minority.

Mrs. Tourret of Colorado Springs, speaking at a recent anti-suffrage meeting at Fitchburg on the many undesirable effects of suffrage in her state, advised her hearers to cling to what they can do "just as women," she added: "Righteousness and sympathy cannot be secured by legislation. Massachusetts is a model state and some of the finest things of the west have had their origin here. Don't ever let this state come down from its high place."

Since stashed the women of North Dakota have had the educational franchise which enables them to vote for state and county superintendent of schools. The vast majority of female citizens have faith in the integrity of their husbands, fathers, brothers and sons, however, and do not use nor want even this franchise. On June 24th last, at the primaries, the men and women of the state voted for these two offices. As an example of the interest taken by women, 31 of them voted in Cass county, where 3598 men went to the polls. In Fargo, the largest city in the state, only 29 women voted. County Auditor Addison Leach is authority for these figures. They clearly show one of two things: Either the number of Suffragists in Fargo is very small, or else they carry their political burden very lightly and carelessly. If no one of the candidates for office was worth supporting, why did they not nominate a man who was worthy of being entrusted with the education of the children of the state.

As an example of the advantage a woman possesses in their non-partisan, take Miss Julia G. Lathrop's tenure of office; Miss Lathrop is head of the Federal Children's Bureau and retained her position while the male heads of bureaus lost their positions on account of their political affiliations in the change from the Taft to the Wilson administration.

"Politics" declared Senator Root in condemning woman suffrage 20 years ago, "is modified war." "But that is awfully out of date now, even if Root is still an anti-suffragist," said a vote enthusiast a few weeks ago "because there will never be any more real wars anyway; public opinion and intelligent study now decide the questions that used to lead to war; and besides neither the Socialists nor the suffragists would permit the world to go to war now-a-days!"

A party of suffrage agitators including Annie Kenny the English militant, has started for the west to make war on the Democratic Party.

The National American Suffrage Association, whose president is Dr. Anna Shaw, and the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage have declared war upon each other. What plausible ladies these are, who assured us that if woman had the vote there would be no more wars.

England is truly to be pitied. As soon as this cruel and devastating European war is over, the suffragettes plan to begin again their work of destruction. Mrs. Pankhurst has made this announcement in England, and is lecturing in this country at the invitation of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, makes the same statement here.

All history shows that when women are engrossed with public contests, and ambitions they become vindictive and implacable. It was the women in the amphitheatre that raised one hand for the death of the gladiator. It was a woman who pressed the reluctant Charles to the massacre of St. Bartholomew. It was women that set around the guillotine in 1792, and who fired the houses of suspects and slew their inmates during the commune. It was the Empress Eugenie who called the terrible war of 1870, "my war."

These are facts, indisputable facts. They are not theories or promises.

Saturday and Sunday were ideal weather, and the auto-travel was exceptionally heavy.

BOY MISTAKEN FOR DEER KILLED

Harry Williams Shot at Gerrish Island Saturday Evening—Received Full Charge of Buck Shot in His Back—Investigation Being Made by County and State Authorities.

Harry Williams, age 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams of Kittery Point, was accidentally shot while hunting on Gerrish Island on Saturday evening, and died almost instantly.

Young Williams along with Virgil Lynch a lad of his own age, had been on the island hunting and they were on their way home between six and seven o'clock. They stopped on the island side of the bridge to rest and were seated on a rock. Finally they arose to walk across the bridge when a gun shot was heard directly behind them and young Williams with a cry of pain, fell to the ground.

Young Lynch looked around to see who fired the shot, but failed to see anyone and he then bent over his companion. Thinking that he was alive he stopped a grocery wagon which came along across the bridge, and they lifted the body into the wagon and took him home but he was dead before they reached the house.

Dr. J. D. Carv was called but he said that death must have occurred immediately after he was struck.

He found that the boy had been struck in the back with seven buck shot evidently fired at a fairly close range. One had gone through the heart, another through his lung and two had passed completely through the body.

A search of the island following the shooting by relatives of the dead boy failed to find any gunners, although it is known that there were several on the island Saturday afternoon after deer. A coroner's jury was empaneled on Sunday and an investigation is to be made. The names of some of the gunners who were on the island about that time of the shooting are known and it is probable that arrests will follow. It is understood that the State Game Wardens will make an investigation as the open season on deer at this end of York County, does not go into effect until Nov. 1.

Young Williams was a student at Trapp Academy and he was a bright young lad who was very popular. There is considerable feeling at Kittery Point over the shooting and a tight investigation will be made. There was no doubt that it was an accident but a rather careless one.

The people living on Gerrish Island and there are some summer people still there, complain that the island has been infested with gunners and that they are afraid to move from their property. Saturday several buck shot were dug from a mail box in front of a cottage.

BARN DESTROYED WITH HORSES AND COWS

Fire destroyed the large barn with all of the contents of Abdon S. Garland on the old Beachcroft farm, Newington, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Garland was just driving into the barn with a two horse team load of fodder corn, when he discovered the fire and he ran to get a hose, but before he could get back the flames spread with such rapidity that he was unable to save the pair of horses on the load and they were destroyed. In addition a pony and one cow were in the barn and there were burned.

The auto chemical was sent for but there was nothing they could do other than protect the house, which was saved. The barn and all its contents, including about forty tons of hay, and many bushels of grain, and other feed, and some farming implements, were a complete loss. The origin of the fire is not known. Mr. Garland stated that there was nobody in the barn while he was out and he is at a loss to account for its start. His loss is $2,000.

Peculiar Questioning.

It is yet too early to judge of the value of the public market as introduced in various cities in the hope of reducing to some extent the cost of living. All are familiar with the theory that is being acted upon, which is that by bringing the producer and consumer together and thereby eliminating the profits of the middleman something should be gained by the producers of foodstuffs and those in a position to buy direct from the producers.

So far as this plan can be carried into effect it should and must prove of advantage to the two classes mentioned. The greatest drawback, as most people view it, is that in large cities it will hardly be possible for enough farmers to take their produce to these public markets to make any noticeable impression upon the conditions that exist. In small cities the scheme might be more practicable, but in such cities many farmers establish their own markets by building up lists of customers to whom their products are delivered regularly without the intervention of the middleman. This works well wherever it is practicable, but it is not practicable in the large cities, and consequently the public market has been designed as a place where farmers and consumers can meet for direct dealing. And so far as it goes, this is a good thing, as has already been demonstrated.

Among the large cities in which the experiment is being tried is New York, and one of the newspapers of that city questions the utility of the public market on grounds that will strike the average person as peculiar. Its statements read as if it thought the middlemen entitled to protection from such competition. It says: "The soundness of the policy which leads a community to compete with its own component members, or which gives facilities to outsiders to do this, must always be open to dispute." In another part of the article the paper says: "It must not be forgotten that in an organized community every one lives on every one else, and no scheme which favors one class at the expense of another can finally be of advantage to any one."

But if the public market were to be discouraged in behalf of the middleman, would not that be favoring one class at the expense of another, with the favor going to a class that is largely in the minority? This is no argument at all against the public market, which not only has a proper place in the life of today, but one larger than it is likely ever to fill.

Actors and theatrical companies are coming to this country from England in such numbers that native players are feeling the competition keenly, especially in New York, where hundreds of them are looking anxiously, and in many cases hopelessly, for engagements. This is another and a wholly unexpected effect of the war, which renders the theatrical business much less promising in England than in the United States, where money for amusements is still plentiful in spite of war taxes and the cost of living.

Now it is proposed in Washington to place a tax on automobiles instead of on gasoline, the rate being 25 cents per horse power to be paid by owners and $1 per horse power to be paid by manufacturers on every machine sold. It is estimated that such a tax would yield a yearly revenue of $15,000,000. And this tax will not be so easily passed along to the "ultimate consumer" as would one on gasoline.

It is reported that land has reached such values in some parts of the West that they are talking of cutting the width of country roads from 60 feet to 40. But it would seem that where land is worth from $200 to $300 an acre communities should be able to maintain not only roads of good width, but of good quality.

A worldwide investigation of the relations of capital and labor is to be made by the Rockefeller Foundation, which John D. Rockefeller endowed with $100,000,000. And all that is to be said of the fact that a Canadian has been selected to direct the work is that he is a mighty lucky Canadian.

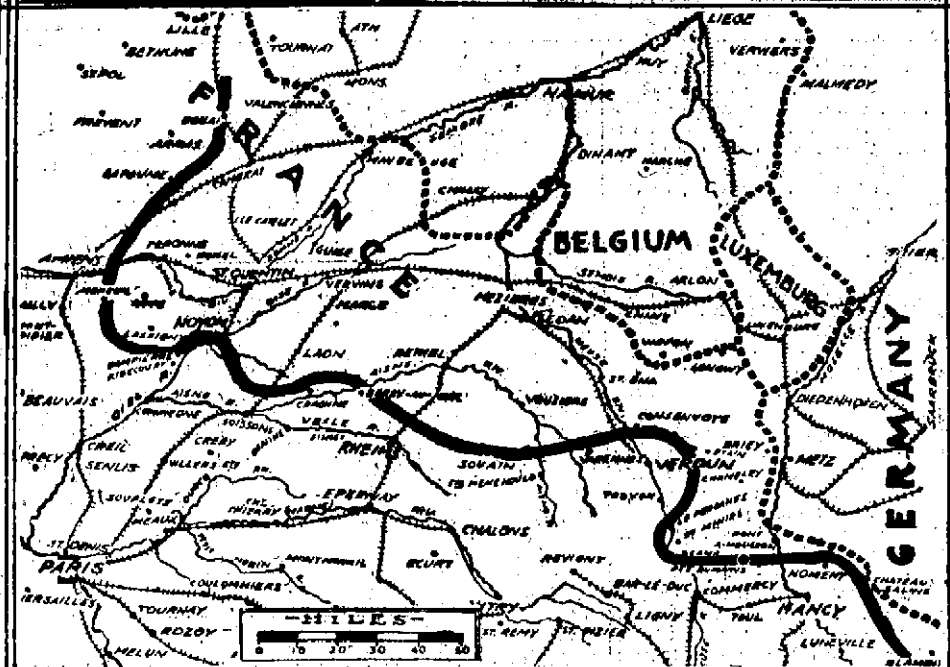

Every time Congress thinks it is about ready to adjourn the president comes forward with another chore to be done before "knocking off." This time it is the ship purchasing bill that sets back the hands on the vacation clock.

According to the report of the National Highway Protective Society for September, 96 persons were killed in New York state during the month by automobiles. "That's going some," to use a going expression.

Secretary of State and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan have reached the 30th anniversary of their marriage and have the congratulations of the entire country, regardless of all political feeling and prejudice.

FARMERS SHOULD RAISE WELL-BRED HORSES FOR INCREASED EUROPEAN DEMAND

Good Mares Used Ordinarily in the Farm Work Should Not Be Bred to Good Stallions. Mares Kept for Breeding Purposes Only Not Generally Profitable. Countries at War Possess Nearly Forty Million Horses.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—During the next decade there will probably be an increased demand for American horses in the countries now engaged in the European war. The demand may even continue much longer, according to investigators of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as not only will horses be needed for armies, but when peace is restored, more will be needed for agriculture. Already European agents are said to be endeavoring to purchase horses in this country and Canada, and there is an increased interest in many sections in horse breeding.

To meet this increased European demand American farmers may well endeavor to raise well-bred horses, although the Department of Agriculture does not advise them to purchase a surplus of horses merely for breeding purposes. It merely advises that ordinary farm work should be done whenever possible by good mares should be bred to good stallions. It also desires to emphasize the fact that only horses of high quality may be profitably raised today. Inferior horses are a drag on the market, and their production is to be discouraged as much as the production of good horses should be encouraged.

The United States has previously been drawn on to supply European countries at war. In the Boer War over 100,000 horses were bought here by the British government. It may be doubted whether a foreign government could now obtain a similar supply in this country, except at excessive cost. However, if farmers take pains to utilize their good mares during this winter to breed them to good stallions, in the course of several years (time enough for the foals to develop) America will be better able to meet the European demand. It is natural that European countries should look to the United States for horses, as next to Russia it has more of these animals than any other country in the world. The United States and Russia possess 58 percent of the world supply. Strange to say, however, there were no horses originally on our continent and the present supply comes from stock brought over from Europe. Canada's supply is small compared to our own.

War as a Consumer of Horses.—The German army requires for a complete mobilization 770,000 horses and the French army is said to require 250,000, which figure, however, probably includes only those for the cavalry. It is conservatively estimated on good authority that 1,000,000 horses are now engaged in the European war. As the great majority of these horses are not included in the permanent military organization but are used for farm work and are requisitioned by governments only when needed for military purposes, the countries of continental Europe will certainly face an acute shortage of farm horses before the next planting season which will seriously affect the price of horses the world over, as soon as peace is declared.

According to the best information horses in the countries of Europe now at war number as follows:

Great Britain	2,231,000
France	3,223,000
Belgium	263,000
Germany	4,523,000
Austria Hungary	4,274,000
Russia	24,652,000
Total	39,266,000

In addition England has a supply of about six millions at draw on in her various dependencies. Russia has about ten millions in Asia and France probably 500,000 to one million in her colonies.

The rapacious consumption of horses in war is illustrated by figures from our own Civil conflict. During the Shenandoah Valley campaign, Sheridan was supplied with fresh horses at the rate of 150 per day. In his report for the year 1865, the quartermaster General of the U. S. Army stated: "The service of a cavalry horse under an enterprising commander has averaged only four months." During 1864 there were 600 horses consumed per day in the Northern army, without considering those captured and not reported. During eight months of that year, the cavalry of the army of the Potomac was remounted twice, nearly 40,000 horses in all being required.

Our Own Army a Desirable Market.—Our own army furnishes a desirable market for well-bred horses, there being under the remount system, at least 5,000 horses required annually to supply both the Army and the National Guard. There are now about 20,000 horses in our regular army on a peace basis. In war, many more would be required before the first engagement. There is, therefore, a steady market for good horses independent of the European demand.

Even the invasion of motor power which has reduced the number of horses on our streets has not induced this demand. In fact, the price of horses has advanced along with other commodities during recent years. The Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., stands ready to aid any farmer desiring to breed high-class horses. As the day of the large horse ranch is practically gone, any increased demand will have to be met by the farmer. There are certain localities more suited to horse breeding than others and places where certain breeds do better. Such details may be obtained for the asking. Even in the South, where mules are bred in preference to horses, an increased production of first-class animals should find a ready market abroad, although the mule is not used on the Continent to the extent that it is used here.

DOVER REPENTS AND BURIES THE HATCHET

Without assuming too much which seems improbable at this time, it is however, especially, encouraging to state that an ardent effort will be made by Manager Sullivan of the Dover High school football team to add the name of Portsmouth to the local high school schedule this year, and the young manager will make a trip to Portsmouth Monday, especially to discuss the situation with the hope of being able to come to some conclusion. Those who know the tact and strategy which this young man is capable of do not entertain any doubts regarding the outcome and feel confident that two games will be arranged. The members of the Dover team wish to make it clear to the Portsmouth players that they have entirely forgotten the unfortunate happenings of last year which caused the suspension of football activities between the two schools and which also was responsible for the suspension of even baseball negotiations during the last season. They are prepared to erase the blot from their record and start all over again with a clean slate. The local high school athletes are so anxious to arrange two games with Portsmouth that they are prepared to make any reasonable sacrifice in order to bring about the same, and have already consented to go to Portsmouth and play the first game providing the sea coast contingent will return the compliment and come to Dover.

The possibility of a repetition of the unpopular actions which caused the trouble last year are impossible this year, in view of the fact that Head Coach McDonough insists on football which is at all times clean and above board, and does not offer the slightest objection when a man is removed from his team for violation, and rather favors the action of the referee in all instances. This was manifested in the first game with Newmarket when both teams were instructed as to the rules and the action which would be taken by the referee and all knew the result, as a cleaner game of football was never witnessed in this section of the state. The boys played the game hard but they acted as gentlemen and this rule goes for the entire season regardless of the offender or his actual value to the team.—Dover Democrat.

Hen Puts Barmen on Egg.—Arthur Moore, a farmer living near Brunswick, Miss., found an egg on which appears the words "Watch and Pray." In raised letters as perfectly formed as if incised. The "W" and "P" are in capitals and the others letters in lower case. Moore says he found the egg in a nest with two others.

Some of the rural districts of Massachusetts the peasantry consume large quantities of pumpkin seeds, salted and roasted brown. The taste of this "nut," like the taste of caviar, is an acquired vice and some persons never succeed in acquiring it.—New York Press.

GIRLS' CLUB PLAN BUSY WINTER

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers to Be Held.

The Girls' Club will hold its annual meeting and election of officers on Thursday evening, October 8, at 7.30 o'clock. Girls over 14 years of age are eligible for membership. All those that are interested are urged to join at that time, so as to have a share in making plans for the coming year.

This club forms one large family, and all girls are welcome there, for it is undenominational. The aim of the organization is to reach all girls, and to interest them socially as well as educationally, with this idea in view, classes are formed in embroidery, dressmaking, literature, gymnastics and dancing, and any others that may be desired.

The girls form the active voting body while all others who are interested, but do not care to actively participate, become associate members. Can not more interest be aroused so that both the active and associate memberships may be increased.

WHY NEWSPAPERS SELL GOODS

Newspaper circulations are built by public confidence. People believe in the newspapers they read. They personally know most of the local advertisers.

When a national product is advertised in the newspapers it enters good society. It has the stamp of familiarity. It carries confidence with it. It reaches people when they are in the mood to buy and tells of goods readily obtainable.

National manufacturers who are interested in increasing sales are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

SHERIFFS HOLDING BOOZE AT BIDDEFORD

Philip Blumenthal, the owner of the Cadillac touring car which turned turtle in a field near the iron bridge at West Biddeford one night a week or so ago, while the men in the car were attempting to get away from Deputy Sheriff Rex A. Wormwood, Joseph Lachance and Pierre Ledoux, with some 75 gallons of booze was arrested at Portland on Friday, on a warrant sworn out at Portsmouth, N. H., charging him with obtaining the liquors that were seized by the Biddeford deputies, under false pretenses.

While under arrest in this city Blumenthal told Deputy Sheriff Thomas Cullinan when asked if he could pay a fine of $25.00 and costs on a charge of illegal possession he could if payment on the check which he offered in payment for the liquors at Portsmouth was stopped. He said the amount was $460.

According to the Portland papers, the check was returned from Portsmouth, N. H., marked "no funds" and a complaint followed and proceedings were instituted.—Biddeford Journal.

Breezy Items from the Village Across the River.

At the last meeting of E. G. Parker Post, No. 98, G. A. R., the following resolutions were adopted on the death of Calvin L. Hayes.

Calvin L. Hayes was born in Kittery, March 1, 1842. His early education was acquired in the schools of his native town and he fitted for college at Wolfboro, N. H. He was a student at Bowdoin when the Civil war broke out. Bowdoin has a long and honorable roll of honor beginning as early as the class of 1823, and including such men as Chamberlain, Tilden, Mallocks, Thomas B. Reed and others. With such associates to look up to, and down to, Young Hayes was filled with ardor to fight for his country. He enlisted in the first call of 1861, again in 1862, and again in 1864.

He held the rank of private, sergeant, major and adjutant, the latter in the 32d Maine Infantry. In this position he saw much hard service and for a time commanded the regiment. Briefly stated the military service of Adjutant Hayes was characterized by an intelligent and prompt obedience to the orders of his superior officers—while at every point in his life we find him faithful in the performance of his duties assigned to him.

The end came July 24, 1914. Resolved: That by our Comrade Calvin L. Hayes answering the last roll call the Post loses one of its best members; his family meets with an irreparable loss; the town loses an honorable citizen.

Resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon our records, and a copy be given to the press and to his family.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapiesin" is the quickest and surest Stomach relief.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or how like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, indigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, and taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent boxes of Pape's Diapiesin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves, sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes.

"Pape's Diapiesin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the toilet with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapiesin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

While gunning on Gerrish Island Saturday, Harry Williams, with the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams was shot and almost instantly killed by parties whose identity has not yet been fixed upon. Young Williams and a companion had been sitting down to rest, and on rising a shot was heard in close proximity, Williams instantly refusing with a heavy charge of buck shot in his body. It is supposed he was mistaken for a deer, as it is known that the island has recently been infested by so-called hunters to such an extent that the lives of summer residents have been much endangered. It is said that an investigation into this sad affair will at once be made. Williams was a student at Trapp Academy, and a young man of much promise. The sympathy of the community is extended to his parents in their hour of affliction.

KEYS PLACE ON PEVERLEY HILL ROAD DESTROYED BY FIRE

The old Keys farm house on Peverley Hill road, occupied by John Coleman and owned by John Wright, was destroyed by fire early Saturday evening. The fire was discovered shortly after six o'clock and it started in the barn which adjoins the house. It was in the hay and it spread very rapidly and soon the barn was a roaring furnace. The flames then spread to the shed and from that to the house. There was no water on the place and although the neighbors gathered they were unable to do anything. The agri-

GERMANS MAKING DESPERATE EFFORT TO SAVE DAY

Paris, Oct. 4.—No change in the situation was admitted today, although it was given out that the German's strongly reinforced were making desperate efforts to break through the Allies' lines to save Von Kluck's army being encircled by the Allies' flanking movements to the north. The death toll is increasing by the thousands with each day of this awful onslaught, with attacks and counter attacks.

The Allies reinforced by fresh troops are steadily and surely pushing the Germans back until it is but a matter of days before they will be off French soil.

London, Oct. 4.—Granville Forest, the Daily Telegraph's correspondent, writes from "some point in France":

"For two days and nights the Germans have attacked with the fury of despair. They have been flanking corps upon corps into the angle of the Allies' line at Rheims in a desperate attempt to pierce it. The extreme German left has been decimated by troops that they may be thrown into this vortex, but it has been a vain effort. The gray-coated soldiers have been ten into one French field of fire like corn in a hopper, and they have been ground to dust.

"These violent counter attacks are the direct result of what might be called the present stage of operations. The German field fortifications have been splendidly planned and painstakingly constructed. Their trenches not only give shelter from the enemy's projectiles, but from the elements. These bombproofs deflect the shells and keep out the rain, cold and weather and are beginning to play an active part in the campaign. Realization of this was brought about by the recent suicidal counter attacks of the enemy.

"With winter coming on, the Germans know that nothing short of a decisive victory can save them. Despite their genius for organization, their lines of communication must now be frightfully congested. The evacuation of wounded and the return of 'empties' cannot but seriously interfere with the replenishment of their ammunition, and now the situation is complicated by the necessity of supplying the troops with a winter kit.

"Even now it is plain from the positions of the two armies that the elaborate plan of the German generals has ended in complete failure."

Gerald Morgan, another Daily Telegraph correspondent, telegraphs from "a point in France":

"The farthest west of General von Kluck's many lines of communication are the roads and railway lines which lead from St. Quentin to Cambrai, Valenciennes, Mons and Brussels. Next comes the line St. Quentin-Mauberge, Charleroi, Namur, and after that the third and last, by way of Givet, Dinant, Namur and Liege.

"It is no secret that the French are threatening the first of these lines of communication, the one Cambrai-Valenciennes-Mons, for in their official communiqués they speak of their lines to the north being more and more extended. Little by little the battle fronts again approach the frontier, and the war is being carried back to the inevitable battlefields of Belgium.

"An extended line of operations such as this is just as embarrassing to the Germans now as it was in their favor in August. General von Kluck is himself in the meshes of the same net which he set for the French, but the French, though their movements had to be swift, had a broad and open line of retreat, while that of General von Kluck is narrow and dangerous. General von Kluck is, therefore, not trying to elude the meshes of this net, but to break through them. He is trying to break through in the angle of the rivers Aisne and Somme in the neighborhood of Noyon and the Forest of St. Eloi.

"The official communiqués make no secret either of the character or of the ferocity of the German attacks in this direction, and their object is, of course, to divide the French army and attack it in detail, meanwhile inflicting the severest losses possible on the British, who now are in a position on the very north bank of the River Aisne.

"The question, therefore, reduces itself to this:—Is General von Kluck too big a fish to be caught in the net? Every day the net grows stronger and every day is that much of a gain for the Allies, since the French are being daily reinforced. What General von Kluck cannot do now he will find still harder to do as time goes by."

SIX ANTWERP FORTS UNDER GERMAN FIRE

London, Oct. 4.—G. P. Steward, correspondent at Rotterdam of the London Daily News, telegraphs highly important news on the developments of the last two days in Northern France and Western Belgium.

"When I left Louvain," says Mr. Steward's despatch, "six small forts at Antwerp had been assaulted by the Germans at the cost of a great many lives. Fort Waelhem still holds out.

NOT DRUGS Food Did It

After using laxatives and cathartic medicines from childhood a case of chronic constipation yielded to the scientific food, Grape-Nuts in a few days.

"From early childhood I suffered with such terrible constipation that I had to use laxatives continuously, long from one drug to another and suffering more or less all the time.

"A prominent physician whom I consulted told me the muscles of the digestive organs were weakened and could not perform their work without the aid of some laxative. I have tried all laxatives, but found no help that was at all permanent. I had finally become discouraged and had given my case up as useless when I began to use the pre-digested food, Grape-Nuts.

"Although I had not expected this food to be of any trouble, to my great surprise Grape-Nuts digested easily from the first and in a few days I was convinced that this was just what my system needed.

"The bowels performed their functions regularly and I am now completely and permanently cured of this awful trouble.

"Truly the power of scientific food must be unlimited." Name given by Boston Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

"That 10 days of Grape-Nuts when regular food does not seem to sustain me, was a wonder. 'There's a Reason!'

"Look in 1914, for the famous H.L.C. book, 'The Road to Wellville.'"

"Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest."

AUTO CHEMICAL HAS A BUSY TIME

The Auto Chemical, or the Flying Squad, was kept busy Saturday and Sunday, responding to still alarms.

The first was at 2.23 Saturday afternoon when they were called to the Wentworth road, where there was a brisk brush fire. They had just returned to the station and refilled the tanks when they were called to the Garland fire on the Beacham farm in Newington, where they did good work in saving the house.

On their way back shortly after six o'clock they saw the Peverley Hill fire on the Coleman place and went there, and while unable to do much to save the property owing to the advanced stage of the fire they saved some of the furniture and remained there to

"At one point near Mechlin the Belgians suddenly ceased their fire and the Germans at once moved forward to storm the Belgian positions. When within three hundred yards of the defenders the Germans were absolutely mowed down and thrown back. (At this portion of the despatch a section was eliminated by the censor.)

"It would be more true to say that the Germans in Brabant and in Northern France were being besieged than that they are besieging Antwerp."

"At Ninove, fifteen miles west of Brussels, the Belgians have advanced and the Germans have cleared out, although the Kaiser's forces had prepared trenches for defence."

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, October 5.—New England Democrats are bidding high in Washington for the best talent in the Democratic party to come to New England and help them in the state campaign. The list of spellbinders desired is a long one and includes such stars as McAdoo, Redfield, Wilson, and Daniels of the President's cabinet, and such senators as Johnson of Maine, Williams of Mississippi and Lewis of Illinois, and also Oscar Underwood and Speaker Champ Clark.

Boston, October 5.—Joseph Walker, Progressive nominee for Governor, declares for nation-wide prohibition and state ownership of the majority bonds of the Boston and Maine railroad. He says: "I favor nation wide prohibition. I have never favored state-wide prohibition because I do not believe that it can be enforced. I recognize that the evil lies in the abuse and not in the use of liquor. I favor state ownership of the majority stock of the Boston and Maine railroad. The directors of the New Haven have sacrificed the interests of the public, the stockholders and the employees of both railroads. I believe that the interests of all and the welfare of New England will be better served if hereafter the Gov. of Massachusetts representing the majority stock, is given the right to select the board of directors of the Boston and Maine. On such board the other states interested, the minority stockholders and the employees should have proper representation.

Boston, October 5.—Every theatre in Boston seems first class for safety," declared Metropolitan Fire Prevention Commissioner O'Keefe, after a conference with Fred E. Wright, representing the Plymouth theatre; Charles J. Rich of the Hollis, John Craig of the Castle Square, Attorney Collins, representing Keith's, T. B. Lothian of the Colonial, Manager Cort of the Cory Theatre, Edward D. Smith of the Wilbur, Shubert and Majestic theatres, John H. Schoffel of the Tremont and Fred Ferguson of the Boston theatre.

Boston, October 5.—Congressman Ernest W. Roberts of Chelsea, who has always taken a keen interest in the militia has donated to each of the military companies of his district a 14k gold medal of beautiful design and finish. The medal is to be the property of the company and is to be competed for annually by the men. It is to be worn by the winner for one year, and at the expiration of that time he is to be given a bronze replica which is also to be donated by Roberts, to commemorate having held the gold medal.

Boston, October 5.—The trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital have issued invitations for exercises to be held at the hospital on the 68th anniversary of "Ether Day," October 16. During the course of the entertainment there will be an address by John M. T. Phinney.

Boston, October 5.—Before the New England Historical Genealogical Society on October 7 John Ritchie, Jr., president of the Boston Scientific Society, will address the gathering on "Nooks and Corners of the Old Bay State." The meeting will be held at Wilder Hall, 8 Ashburton Place, at 8.30 p. m. In addition to the lecture many new applications for membership will be considered.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

THIS WAR WILL PRODUCE WHISKERS

New York, Sept. 5.—Alcohol should worry! What if this dreadful senseless, sanguinary war in Europe does shorten the crop of Parisian gowns, French lingerie, Austrian kid gloves, Russian blouses, Hungarian stripes, Cologne perfume and what not? The women can learn to get along without those things, for the enterprising American business man will soon be able to put out substituted "something just as good"—or better.

But think of the men! Think of the barbers! This war will produce whiskers. It will bring hirsute adornment for male chins, lips and cheeks back into vogue. Pretty soon Broadway and Fifth avenue will be all cluttered up with whiskers. And all because of the war. How is that? Very simple.

The soldiers fighting on the other side, Englishmen, Frenchmen and Germans are too busy to shave. It may be that a few of the London Johnnies who enlisted went to the front with a safety razor and a cake of soap, but the majority of the men on the fighting line are entirely too busy to shave. Pretty soon they will have developed considerable beards—enough to make a showing, and they will decide to leave 'em on. Where is the man with not enough vanity that he does not want to wear whiskers? They all do. The only thing between the average man and a mustache-chops, Gaiways or a Van-dyke, is the uncomfortable intermediate period when his face looks like a stubble-field after spring wheat has been cut.

There never was a man in the world who was sick long enough, or in the wilds long enough to get a respectable growth of hair on his face, who did not have a smacking desire to leave it there. Most of them do.

It's a fact that nine hundred and ninety-nine sets of whiskers to be seen are the result of accident. But, once the accident has happened the possessor of the sprouts is as proud as Lucifer and wears the beard until his friends or his wife tease him into parting with it.

The truth is that all men like whiskers and are always glad of an excuse to wear them. In this war, the gallant boys at the front will be so busy fighting each other, that they will pretty soon find themselves with full beards. Most of them will be flattered and will leave the whiskers on.

When the war is over—that's an indefinite way of putting it, but it is the best we can do—when the war, then, is over, the soldier boys who did not get shot up will go home and be the heroes of the day. And they will have whiskers.

Every man wants to be a hero. If he is not a hero, he wants to make people think he is. Therefore, when the real heroes go home with whiskers and coral all the mounds, matrons and spinners in the neighborhood, those men who did not fight, will immediately grow whiskers.

And of course the thing will spread to this side. Such things always do. If the war heroes of London are wearing beards, the Beau Brummels of Broadway and Fifth avenue will wear whiskers, too.

That's what the war will do for the men. They will have to wear hair on their faces. Soon we will have "burnsides," "chesterfields," "Gaiways," "Van-dykes," "Imperials," "Bee-escapes," and all the old brands of whiskers, and doubtless a lot of new ones into the bargain.

The men of New York soon may be

The women may have to forego European clothes and wear New York gowns, New England lingerie and Arkansas kid gloves, but they will have nothing on the men who have to wear whiskers.

DISCOVER WAY TO MAKE FINE TABLE SIRUP FROM APPLES

Department of Agriculture Applies for Public Service Patent. Will Enable Cider Mills to Make a Keeping and Valuable By-Product out of Excess Cider.

Washington, D. C., October 4.—Following extensive experiments begun last spring, the head of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the Department of Agriculture has applied for a public service patent covering the making of a new form of table sirup from apple juice. This patent will make the discovery, which the specialists believe will be of great value to all apple growers as a means of utilizing their culls and excess apple, common property of any cider mill in the United States which wishes to manufacture and sell apple cider sirup.

The new sirup, one gallon of which is made from seven gallons of ordinary cider, is a clear ruby or amber colored sirup of about the consistency of cane sirup. Properly sterilized and put in sealed tins or bottles, it will keep indefinitely, and when opened will keep under household conditions as well as other sirups. It has a distinct fruity aroma and special flavor of its own which is described as being practically the same as the taste of the sirupy substance which exudes from a baked apple.

The sirup can be used like maple or other sirups for griddle cakes, cereals, household cookery and as flavoring in desserts. The government cooking experts are at present experimenting with it in cookery and expect shortly to issue receipts for use of the new sirups in old ways and for taking advantage of its special flavor in novel dishes.

The department chemists have already produced over ten gallons of this sirup in their laboratories, using summer and other forms of apples. The success of the experiments have greatly interested some of the apple growers, and during October a large cider mill in the Hood River Valley, Oregon, will in co-operation with the government chemists, endeavor to produce 1000 gallons on a commercial scale and give the new product a thorough market test by making it accessible through retailers in a limited field. The interest of apple growers in the product arises from the fact that the new apple cider sirup promises to give them a vast outlet for vast quantities of windfall and other apples for which they hitherto could find no market either in perishable raw cider or in vinegar. Cider production it seems, comes largely at one season of the year, during which the market is more or less flooded with this perishable product of the raw cider, moreover, the cider makers "ax" often make it unprofitable for them to ship the raw cider of one district long distances to a non-apple growing region. The market for cider therefore has been largely restricted in many cases to localities near the area of production. No method of sterilizing ordinary cider has been found practical for the reason that boiling cider at once interferes with its delicate flavor.

With the cider mill able to make a palatable, long-keeping table sirup out of its apple juice, growers it is believed will be able to use all excess juice for bottled or canned apple sirup. The new sirup the specialists find, will keep indefinitely, so that the cider makers can market it gradually through the year.

The process for making the sirup calls for the addition to a cider mill of a filter press and open kettles or some other concentrating apparatus.

The process is described as follows: The raw cider is treated with pure milk of lime until nearly but not quite, all of the natural malic acid are neutralized. The cider is then heated to boiling and filtered through a filter press, an essential feature of the process. The resultant liquid is then evaporated either in continuous evaporators or open kettles, just as ordinary cane or sorghum sirup is treated. It is then cooled and allowed to stand for a short time, which causes the lime and acids to form small crystals of calcium malate. The sirup is then refiltered through the filter press, which removes the crystals of calcium malate and leaves a sirup with practically the same basic composition as ordinary cane sirup, the flavor however, and appearance are distinctive.

Calcium malate, the by-product is a substance used in medicine selling for $2 a pound. It is believed that calcium malate can be produced in this way cheaply and in large quantities. It can be made commercially useful in new ways, possibly in the manufacture of baking powder. The cost of making this sirup on a commercial scale will be determined during the test in October.

For the purpose of establishing another wild fowl refuge on the northern shore of the Gulf of Mexico the Rockefeller Foundation has purchased the Grand Chenier tract, containing 85,000 acres, in the parish of Cameron and Vermilion, Louisiana, at a cost of approximately $225,000. An announcement to this effect was made by the secretary of the foundation yesterday upon the execution of a deed from the Rockefeller Foundation placing the land for an initial term of five years under the protection of the Louisiana Conservation Commission. The commission on its side, has formally accepted the tract and has undertaken to protect it by game wardens.

This purchase, the arrangements for which have consumed more than a year and a half, is another step in the programme to establish through out the winter feeding and resting grounds for birds and along their migration routes suitable preserves where they can be protected at all times of the year.

The Grand Chenier tract is full of shallow ponds, lakes and bayous, abounding in cover for the protection of birds against storms. It produces an enormous quantity of natural food, sufficient to provide for the vast number of birds from the North which winter along the Gulf coast.

OBSEQUIES

J. Mahlon Bickford

Funeral services of J. Mahlon Bickford were held at the home on State street Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. L. H. Thayer conducting the services. A delegation from Pleasant Lodge, No. 5, I. O. O. F., composed of Henry Smith, James Togg, John Gerrish, Milton Gardner were in attendance.

Interment took place in Riverside cemetery, Newcastle, under direction of H. W. Nickerson. The bearers were Mark Boulter, Edward McIntire, Frank Fagan and Edward Ryan, all from the navy yard. There was a large gathering of friends present and some handsome floral pieces.

Annie Saltmarsh

The funeral of Miss Annie Saltmarsh was held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon from her late home in 2101, Rev. E. P. Moulton of the Pearl street Baptist church of this city officiating. The body will be taken to Derry today for interment under the direction of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

SETTLED FOR HIS LIQUOR TO SAVE ARREST

Portland, Oct. 4.—Philip Blumenthal, 22, a butcher in this city, was arrested Friday by Sgt. George Dingley at the Portland police department, a warrant having been sworn out by George H. Becker, deputy marshal of the Portsmouth, N. H., police, charging Blumenthal with obtaining goods by false pretenses.

According to the New Hampshire officer, Blumenthal recently purchased of a Portsmouth liquor concern a quantity of liquors valued at $100 and gave in payment for it a check which was later returned to the Portsmouth concern by a Portland bank, marked "no funds."

According to a statement alleged to have been made by Blumenthal following his arrest yesterday, the liquor which was purchased by him in Portsmouth was seized in Hildesford, while it was being taken to Portland. He is alleged to have further said that an attorney had told him that the concern from which he purchased the liquor could not collect for the goods, but apparently he neglected to tell the lawyer that he gave an alleged worth less check in payment. If he did do that as is alleged.

An effort will be made to take him back to Portsmouth today to answer this charge of obtaining goods by false pretenses and in case he refuses to go without extradition papers the Portsmouth officer will have him arraigned in the Municipal court here as a fugitive from justice in order to have him placed under bonds until the necessary papers have been obtained. Blumenthal was admitted to bail by bail Commissioner Henry Taylor.

Saturday he settled the case by depositing money to cover the check and the expense of the arrest. This was satisfactory to the Portsmouth Deputy and he was released.

NOTE INDICATES SUICIDE

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 4.—Walter J. Vinal, aged 62, died at his home on Lincoln street Saturday night from an overdose of morphine.

He was down town yesterday morning when nothing unusual was noted in his manner. Early in the afternoon Mrs. Vinal, who is an invalid, noted the odor from his room and called to him. He stepped into the hall where he swooned and fell. A physician worked over him in vain for hours. A paper among his effects indicated that the act was contemplated.

Mr. Vinal was born in Lowell, Mass., June 25, 1852. He was by trade a machinist, but for about 20 years had been a practitioner of Christian Science, mainly in Brooklyn, whence he returned to Exeter two years ago. He leaves his wife and a sister, Mrs. George N. Julian.

STILL NO U. S. BAN ON SHIPPING ARMS.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The Government will take no steps to stop shipments of arms and ammunition and other contraband from the United States to the belligerents in Europe, as was announced by the President more than a month ago.

This was the answer of State Department officials today to the report that President Wilson might look with disfavor on such shipments, as he did the making of loans by American banking houses to France and Germany.

The President declared in August that while such shipments might be made they were subject to seizure by the powers at war, in which case the shippers could have no redress from this Government.

MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting of the Board of Managers of the Old Ladies' Home called for this afternoon, has been postponed to Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, owing to the death of Miss Wmcock, whose funeral is held at 2.30 Monday.

The above is JUST PART of the result of a neglected bearing "knock"—for in this particular case the crankcase, crankshaft, a pair of cylinders and two connecting rods were ruined.

WORK FOR PEACE

We have prayed for peace and we believe that the prayers offered yesterday were heard by Him who heareth prayer. If those who prayed hear the answer, they may be sure that in part it will be, work for peace. For He who answereth prayer also says that faith without works is dead. Why not organize for peace let it be known that these United States are willing to suffer for peace if need be. We are of all nations, none can suffer in war but we must suffer with them.
